Date: January 29, 2014

Registration is now open for the 2014 Power Up Assistive Technology Conference and Expo. The conference will be held on April 14 and 15 at Tan-Tar-A in Osage Beach, MO. This year's conference features a host of national and regional presenters to strengthen the capacity of educators, special education staff, occupational and physical therapists, speech language pathologists, paraprofessionals, librarians, technology staff, etc.

Discover new assistive technology (AT) devices and resources from interactive sessions. This year's conference will include Missouri and national presenters on topics like iPads and applications for students and others with disabilities; augmentative communication devices; AT and transition; AT for low-vision; accessible websites; and, many other topics related to AT in and out of the classroom. Attendees can also try out adaptive software and hardware in the hands-on learning lab in the Expo.

The conference agenda, registration form, and information on speakers, sessions, and exhibitors can be found on Missouri Assistive Technology's website at: <http://www.at.mo.gov/powerup/index.html>.
